

END OF FRANCO-ITALIAN CRISIS NOW PREDICTED

The Naval Accord Reached Last Week To Have Great Results

By RALPH HEINZEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Mar. 3.—(UP)—The naval accord reached last week at Paris and Rome was "merely the prelude to the rapid ending of all Franco-Italian problems," Foreign Minister Aristide Briand said today in debating the Foreign Affairs budget in the Chamber of Commerce.

Briand described the accord as another move toward world disarmament.

"The naval accord represents another step in the general direction of total world disarmament," Briand said. "Italy must be praised for her unselfish role."

"The conclusion of a naval agreement is merely a prelude to the rapid ending of all Franco-Italian problems, including the 30-year discussion of the status of Italians in Tunisia and of the African colonial frontiers."

Serious Controversy

The Franco-Italian controversy in Northern Africa has been a serious one in the past, particularly in connection with claims of Italy that she was not treated justly in the colonial divisions made after the World War. Desire for greater territory in northern Africa has been one of the chief causes for Italian support of demands for revision of the Versailles treaty, and at one time it was rumored Italy demanded satisfaction prior to agreeing to a settlement of Franco-Italian naval problems.

Briand, discussing foreign policy, accused Soviet Russia of being "the most armed nation, with the strongest army of Europe."

His statement was made in reply to the criticism of a Communist Deputy, Marcel Cachin, who attacked the Foreign Office for "supporting White Russians" against the Soviet.

The Moscow trial and accusations of an interventionist plot in which M. Polignac, myself and the French government were accused of fomenting and supporting an invasion of White Russians, was so ridiculous that it was not necessary to officially deny it or to protect it," Briand continued. "I assure you France has no contact with the White Russians."

Publication of the terms of the naval accord will be delayed until Thursday or Friday, it was stated unofficially today, because of the time necessary for the consideration of the agreement by the governments of the United States and Japan.

Changes in the terms of the Washington and London naval treaties will be necessitated by the new tri-power agreement, it is believed generally, although there has been but one official reference to this possibility. Minister of Marine Charles Dumont said that the accord entails "slight modification of the London Treaty."

The limitation of battleships to a maximum of 25,000 tons, understood to be one of the stipulations of the agreement, may offer some difficulty in obtaining the approval of the United States and Japan. While some quarters saw this as a possible delay to an agreement bringing France and Italy within the program of naval limitation to which they declined to commit themselves at the London conference, the French press suggested that the limitations was the most interesting and important part of the Anglo-French-Italian negotiations.

It was pointed out that French and Italian sacrifices in their proposed building programs were mostly technical, as far as could be determined until the next of the agreement is published. Their former positions were relatively unchanged, except that Italy postponed her demand for naval parity until 1936.

Savings in Taxes

Thus the agreement to eliminate the construction of monster fighting craft over 25,000 tons was hailed by the press as a practical saving for taxpayers and definite progress toward limiting the navies of the world.

The provisions of the London treaty on which France and Italy could not agree included limitation of tonnage and a strict definition of cruisers and destroyers; permission to transfer up to 10 per cent of cruiser tonnage to the destroyer class; creation of a "naval yardstick" for the comparison of tonnage, and the safeguarding clause by which signatories to the pact provided for the modification of its provisions in case of emergency.

The United States, Japan and Britain already have agreed in the first article of the first chapter of the London treaty to lay down to line ships between 1931 and 1936 allowed under the Washington treaty. The Franco-Italian suggestion to limit battleships would make the temporary vacation permanent, for the five years would not replace ships of over 25,000 tons when they became obsolete.

FREIGHTER IN DISTRESS

Washington, Mar. 3.—(UP)—The shipping board was advised today that the freighter Seminole, which called for aid last night in a gale off the Virginia Capes, had a broken fuel pump but was not considered in danger.

BUREAU ACTING ON 10,000 VETS' LOANS PER DAY

Gen. Hines Expects To Increase Daily Total To 50,000

Washington, Mar. 3.—(AP)—Veterans Administrator Hines informed President Hoover today approximately 10,000 applications for loans on soldiers' compensation certificates were being handled each day and that the Bureau expected to increase the daily total to 50,000 soon.

Hines said he expected favorable action today or tomorrow from the Federal Reserve Board on his plea that they take care of applications for loans made at great distance from Veterans Bureau regional offices.

The bureau has sent $20,000,000 to regional offices. Hines estimated $10,000,000 already has been loaned. In addition the Washington office has $20,000,000 available and is sending out around 1500 checks a day.

By putting on a night shift, Director Hines said, the capacity of the Washington office will be doubled and he expects to handle from 3000 to 4000 applications a day from the Capital alone.

The Veterans Bureau today urged veterans to take their time in applying for loans on their compensation certificates.

He warned that sitting outside a regional office all night was useless and dangerous to the health.

RED CROSS FUND IN COUNTY GOES PAST $700 MARK

Officers Still Hope That Quota Will Be Met Voluntarily

Contributions to the Lee county quota of the American Red Cross $10,000,000 drought-relief fund are gradually bringing it within striking distance of the amount desired from this county, $1200. Donations made throughout the county up until this morning amounted to $720.60.

No organized campaign to raise the $1200 quota was put on in Lee county, the officers of the county Chapter of the Red Cross believing that voluntary subscriptions would bring the desired amount. They still hope that the needed $500 will be voluntarily given by Lee county people to relieve actual suffering on the part of the drought-stricken citizens of the southwest and southern Illinois. Contributions can be left at any bank in the county.

College Janitor Is Held As Bootlegger

Lake Forest, Ill., Mar. 3.—(UP)—Matthew Turpil, janitor of Lake Forest College and father of 11 children, was arrested last night when police found six pints of alcohol in his home. Lake Forest police raided Turpil's home in response to complaints from parents who said students at the college were purchasing liquor near the campus.

Turpil was booked for arraignment today on charges of violating the state dry law.

WATCHMAN DIES FIGHTING BOMB-THROWING GANG

Death-Dealing "Pine-Aple" Failed To Explode Today

Chicago, March 3.—(UP)—William Mayer, 60, a night watchman, died a hero today, from machine gun wounds received during a fight over an attempt to explode a shrapnel-laden dynamite bomb. His fearlessness hurried the would-be bombers into spoiling their own plans.

Mayer's slayers escaped after throwing a bystander into a basement with the lighted bomb. They disappeared before they learned that the fuse sputtered out before reaching the explosive.

Unlike hundreds of bombs that have been exploded here just to damage property, this huge bomb, police said, was planted to kill.

Had it exploded, the officers said, it would have demolished the brick building under which it was placed and might have killed persons in buildings a block away.

Five men placed the bomb under a Blue Island building in which is located a gambling place said to be operated by James Hackett.

Fought Bombers.

Mayer was fatally hurt when he attempted to fight the bombers. His legs were riddled by machine gun fire.

Hilarie Rodriguez, 30, a Mexican, was an unfortunate witness of the murder attempt. He saw the five men drop the bomb, which was 26 inches long and contained pulverized dynamite and shrapnel, into a coal chute under the Hackett building.

To remove Rodriguez as a witness, the bombers beat him, breaking his jaw, and tossed him down the coal chute after the bomb. He climbed out and was grazed by one of the bullets fired at Mayer.

Members of the police bomb squad said the bomb did not explode because the fuse went out when it struck the floor of the damp basement.

Attracted by the shooting, hundreds of people gathered near the building. They were driven back by police while firemen flooded the basement before removing the bomb.

German War Ace Coming To Amboy

The Amboy Community Forum will have as the speaker Thursday evening a former German Air Captain, A. J. R. von Rosenberg, Captain von Rosenberg had 40 months of service in the German forces, and as a writer and lecturer has traveled widely and is now lending his voice and influence towards lasting peace.

He has said:

"Since America leads all other nations of the world financially, industrially, and in power, would it not be wonderful if America should lead in affairs pertaining to peace."

The Amboy Forum has specialized in bringing to the community a splendid variety and standard of speakers and entertainers. The meetings are without ticket charge, although a collection is taken to apply toward the cost of maintaining a strong program.

At the meeting Thursday night, all ex-servicemen are cordially invited. Captain von Rosenberg stands well as a genuine, fair, and accurate representative, in his presentation of war events, and invites corrections or questions, if to any he may seem in error or to overstate at any point. His home is in Brunswick, Germany.

Unemployed Stage Riot In Capitol

Albany, N. Y., Mar. 3.—(UP)—Three hundred unemployed, who marched into the state Capitol to demand relief, rioted and clashed for 45 minutes today with state troopers before they finally were forced from the Assembly.

There were a number of casualties, though none appeared severe. Captain John Kiely, commander of the state troops force guarding the Assembly, was clawed and beaten and was saved from falling from the gallery into the Assembly hall by a trooper who came to his aid.

William Bell, a Senate page, was knocked unconscious and had to be treated in an emergency hospital after he had gone to the aid of trooper "Spike" Sullivan, who was being pummeled by the demonstrators.

Other state troopers were clawed and scratched when they went into the galleries to quiet the crowd shouting, jeering and booing state officers.

$25,000 Jewelry Theft Reported

Chicago, March 3.—(UP)—L. Karpen, a partner in the firm of S. Karpen & Bros., wholesale furniture manufacturing concern, reported to police today that his apartment had been ransacked and jewelry valued at $25,000 taken by burglars.

Karpen said he and his wife, Ella, discovered the loss when they returned from a theatre.

JOHNSON UNCHANGED.

St. Louis, Mo., March 3.—(AP)—Little change was reported today in the condition of Ben Johnson, retired president of the American League, who is seriously ill in St. John's hospital here.

Some Oddities In Wire News Today From Various Parts

WIVES FURNISH CLUES

Chicago, Mar. 3.—(AP)—If a half dozen wives in Poland, Italy and Yugoslavia had a little more faith in a half dozen husbands in Chicago, the latter might have stayed on here indefinitely.

But those half dozen wives, fearing their half dozen husbands were growing away from them, informed the authorities of their location and the six men were held by immigration officers today on a charge of entering the United States illegally. They told the arresting officers they paid from $60 to $75 each to be smuggled across the line at Detroit.

KINDLY ROBBERS

Chicago, Mar. 3.—(AP)—Joseph Tablik was singing the blues as he rode along yesterday in his automobile. Pay day was still a day away.

As he halted for a traffic light two men jumped on the running board, one of them had a pistol. "Get out," said the robber, "but before you do give me your money."

"That," said Tablik, "is just what I haven't got. Tomorrow is pay day and I only had enough to buy a little gas today."

"In that case," said the bandit, "here's something to tide you over." Tablik looked into his hand. He saw a quarter.

COULDN'T TAKE JOKE

Evanston, Ill., Mar. 3.—(AP)—The Evanston police can't take a little joke.

Alexander Glanz, who lives in Chicago, is the authority for this statement.

They arrested Alexander the other day for a minor traffic law violation and took him to the station. "Companion?" questioned the Disk Sergeant.

"Bootlegger," chuckled Mr. Glanz as he made bond.

Yesterday his case came up for hearing before Magistrate Harry H. Porter. Mr. Glanz wasn't among those present. Then the telephone rang. A friend of his was on the other end of the line.

"Mr. Glanz," he said, "was just having his little joke. He is not a bootlegger. In fact he's a most respectable citizen. He doesn't even like bootleggers and wouldn't mind trading back for the reputations he lost over his chuckle the other night."

Notwithstanding there was a capias around the station today. It called for delivery of one "Alexander Glanz, bootlegger."

WENR-WLS Quarrel Reported Settled

Chicago, Mar. 3.—(UP)—Settlement of the legal quarrel over broadcasting time on the channel now shared by WLS and WENR was announced today by the National Broadcasting Company.

NBC has taken over operations of WENR, which has a 50,000-watt transmitter at Downer's Grove, Ill. WLS will abandon its 5,000-watt transmitter at Crete, Ill. for use of WENR's more powerful transmitter.

In return, WLS will give up its evening hours on the air, except Saturdays. The changes will become effective when formal permission is granted by the Federal Radio Commission.

WLS, operated by the Prairie Farmer, fought at length and unsuccessfully when it is reduced from five-sevenths to one-half of its broadcasting time on the 870-kilocycle channel.

Whiteman To Pay $600-Week Alimony

Chicago, Mar. 3.—(UP)—The third marital venture of Paul Whiteman, orchestra leader, ended yesterday when he obtained a divorce from Mrs. Mildred Whiteman, a dancer who is known on the stage as Wanda Hoff.

Whiteman told Superior Judge John J. Sullivan that he was married seven years ago, and that Mrs. Whiteman left him in September of 1929. He said she was "wonderful" but that with both of them "on the road" married life was impossible.

A property settlement allowed Mrs. Whiteman $600 a week alimony and three insurance policies. Whiteman was granted custody of their son, Paul, Jr., three months of each year.

Murder Suspect Is Held As A Holdup

Chicago, Mar. 3.—(UP)—Maurice P. Tennant, 23, a suspect in the murder of three Boschobell, Wis. farmers and who confessed to 150 robberies, was held to the grand jury late yesterday in $80,000 bond in a preliminary hearing in Felony Court.

The court room was crowded with holdup victims but only four were called to testify.

Miss Celina LeClair, who was arrested with Tennant in a west side apartment, is being held at the Detective Bureau pending the arrival of witnesses from Wisconsin.

Village Destroyed When Land Subsided

Athens, Ga.—(UP)—The village of Kounina, near Aeghion, was virtually destroyed today when the land upon which it was located, subsided.

Two persons were killed and members of two families were seriously injured. The village contained 35 homes.

Pontiac, Ill., Mar. 3.—(UP)—

Candidates for mayor, city clerk, city treasurer, police magistrate and aldermen were nominated at a primary election here today.

MODERATE VOTE BEING CAST IN PRIMARY TODAY

Final Results Should Be Available Early This Evening

Today's primary election for final candidates for Mayor, Commissioner and Police Magistrate, was progressing quietly with a moderate vote recorded early this afternoon at each of the city's six polling places. At this election candidates for Mayor and Commissioner will be selected to run in the final election in April.

Returns of the election will be compiled by The Telegraph and will be displayed at the Covert clear store, phone 291, and the United clear store, phone 114; or may be obtained by phoning this office, phone 5.

It is considered probable that returns will be completed between 6:30 and 7 o'clock.

By United Press

More than a hundred cities, towns and villages held primary or regular elections in Illinois today with issues restricted to local problems, candidates making their race on platforms which committed them for or against certain civic improvements, and proposed tax assessments.

Only in one community was an issue of more than local significance—at Charleston where "law enforcement" was included in a campaign that also involved demands for a larger city water works.

Though no women were reported as having majority ambition in the larger cities there were quite a few of them as candidates for other offices such as City Clerk and Treasurer and for Alderman and Commissioner.

Primaries today were in communities having both the a'dermanic and commission form of government and which hold their runoff election on April 21.

Officers Chosen

Officers to be nominated include Mayors and City Clerks, Treasurers and Aldermen in cities under the aldermanic form of government and Commissioners in the cities under the commission form of government.

Presidents of Board of Trustees and Village Trustees will be elected in villages.

No primaries were held in cities and villages having a population under 5,000, candidates having been nominated at party caucuses last week.

Candidates nominated at primary elections held last week and the week previous will hold their runoff or regular elections on April 7.

Among the principal cities holding primary elections today were Decatur, Kankakee, Pontiac, Mount Carmel, Harrisburg, Pekin, Elmhurst, Morrisburg, LaSalle, Dixon, Oglesby, Charleston, Mattoon, Oakland, Waukegan, Beardstown, Litchfield, Marion, Elgin, Eldorado, Pinckneyville, DeKalb, Sycamore, Ottawa, Freeport, Rochelle, Sterling and Harvard.

Charleston, Ill., Mar. 3.—(UP)—City improvements, law enforcement and the question as to whether the city should have a larger water works were principal issues involved in today's local primary election.

Only one woman was a candidate for office. Miss Etta Notis, who is unopposed for the Republican nomination for City Clerk, S. D. Moore, Democratic holder of the office for ten years, also is unopposed for his party nomination.

Voters are nominating candidates for mayor, city clerk, treasurer, police magistrate and alderman. Each party has two candidates for the mayoralty nomination.

Waukegan, Ill., Mar. 3.—(UP)—Two women candidates seeking party nominations for city clerk featured a city primary election in which a mayor, a city treasurer, a police magistrate and ten aldermen were nominated here today. The most important issue involved is a two mill fire tax to be voted on at the runoff election April 21.

Litchfield, Ill., Mar. 3.—(UP)—Candidates for mayor, city clerk and treasurer, police magistrate and alderman were nominated at a primary election here today.

Mount Carmel, Ill., Mar. 3.—(UP)—The question as to whether

Is Your Bladder Weak?
Do You Get Up Nights?

If your bladder is weak and you get up at night, suffer frequent and painful urination, dribbling highly colored urine, you should take immediate steps to remove the cause. These are danger signals. FELLOWSHIP OF
PRAYER
DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

PREPARED BY

FOR THE COMMISSION ON EVANGELISM OF THE FEDERAL
COUNCIL OF THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

HOLY HOURS

"And when they were awake, they saw his glory."—Luke 9:32. (Read Luke 9:28-36.)

Meditation—

The mountain tops are never crowded. There is nothing to do there but look. Our holy hours are found high up, away from the throng, isolated from our common tasks.

Then the mind is free to become receptive. There is nothing to do but look. In our busy life we need these retreats in the company of a few kindred spirits in order that we may become aware of our higher relationships. Only Luke gives us the incident of the disciples' sleeping. And what a place for their waking! Then they saw what they had never seen before. If we were truly awake, might we not also see what we have been missing? If we would climb to where mere things do not obstruct the view, we too might catch glimpses of glory never seen in the thick of life's affairs.

Prayer—

Our Father, wilt Thou guide us to the places where we may see life transfigured? Comfort us, we pray Thee with renewed assurance that the great spirits of the past are of our company. Amen.

Specimens of mosses from Gethsemane, Nazareth and Mount Lebanon have been received by the Grinnell college botany department.

BAND TAX WAS DISCUSSED BY
KIWANIS TODAY

Club Told Boys Band Must Disband For Lack Of Funds

By an almost unanimous vote the Dixon Kiwanis club this afternoon voted to sponsor the Boys' band of this city for another year. Chairman J. L. Glassburn of the band committee informed the club members that unless immediate aid was made possible in the form of band tax or by other means, that the band would be forced to disband, due entirely to lack of financial support. In making this report to the club, Chairman Glassburn voiced a strong appeal in favor of the proposed band tax.

City Attorney E. E. Wingert appeared before the club and from a neutral standpoint voiced his opinion and that of the Attorney General of Illinois with reference to the band tax. He explained that, at least five per cent of the voters at the last municipal election would be required to sign the petition for the placing of the band tax proposition before the voters as the first requirement and that the tax amounted to one mill on the one dollar assessed valuation. In round figures, he stated this amount would represent $10,017.88 annually, in addition to all other taxes. In comparison, he quoted city expenditures of $11,700 this year for street lighting, which appropriation he said was insufficient, and $18,500 for water.

Up to City Council.

The amount raised by the band tax, he added, would represent a substantial addition to the present taxes. If passed, the City Attorney explained, the full amount or one mill would not necessarily be expended, this being a matter for the city council to decide and name the amount of the band levy. The council, however, could not exceed the one mill tax but it was within their power to fix a lesser amount. He also stated that if the proposition carried that it would be in effect for the next four years or during the life time of the new city council.

As he read opinion from Attorney General Carlstrom, it was stated that the tax would be used for the maintenance or employment of a municipal band to be designated by the city council for musical purposes. The class of band, City Attorney Wingert said, would be for the council to decide. This, he said depended upon whether the council was classically or jazzily inclined. He further explained that the band tax would not be available until another year or until collected. The opinion read by the City Attorney stated that the band must first be organized and that the act was not intended to furnish musical instruction for beginners. He added further, that the matter of providing a band stand or shell might also be considered. In conclusion, he stated there were many points in the act which might arise that could not be answered as the act had not yet received judicial determination.

Many Pled for Band.

In the plea for the Dixon Boys' band, many of the members were heard. Chairman J. L. Glassburn of the band committee of the club made known the fact that the band funds were depleted and that unless immediate assistance could be secured, the organization would be forced to disband. He called attention to the municipal bands of St. Louis and DeKalb in this vicinity, in which cities the tax is levied for these purposes.

Supt. I. B. Potter of the city school system was called upon and stated that no definite plans for a school band were under consideration at the present time, as funds were not available for such an organization. He added that he had hoped that some assistance could be received by the schools by the passage of the band tax but that this was not apparent under the decisions as read by City Attorney Wingert. The board of education of Dixon was taxed to the limit at the present time, Supt. Potter stated, and there was no prospect of a school band at this time.

Several members of the club volunteered donations to the Boys' band committee in an effort to keep that organization intact, until some plan of financing can be determined.

MRS. SWARTS IS
SPEAKER BEFORE
FARMERS' MEET

Care Of Baby Chicks
Theme Of Weekly
Meeting Here

Mrs. Glen Swarts of this city in a very able manner led the discussions at last evening's meeting of farmers and their wives of this vicinity held in the agricultural department at the high school. Care and management of baby chicks, was the subject of the evening and the meeting was especially arranged for the wives of farmers. About 125 men and women enjoyed the interesting program.

Some of the interesting points brought out during the evening were: Poultry producers this year should classify themselves into one of two classes in regard to size of flock started, either 50 or 500 chicks. Feed is cheaper and pullets can be produced for laying at a lower cost than previously. Poultry, even at present low prices returned more for cash dollar invested than other types of livestock. When good management is practiced, profit can be made with poultry at the present time. Poultry sanitation is one of the most important features for successful rearing of chicks.

Two reels of motion pictures were shown dealing on the subject, "Brooding and rearing chicks," through the courtesy of the United States Department of Agriculture, bureau of motion pictures. The names and numbers of several valuable bulletins were given on this subject which are published by various colleges of agriculture and are sent free upon request. The meeting closed with a desire on the part of every one attending to make a joint meeting of this kind an annual affair.

Next Monday evening, L. I. McGinnis, manager of the Blackhawk Produce Company's Dixon plant, will discuss the topic, "Marketing poultry and eggs." The ladies are also invited to attend this instructive meeting.

PERSIA

THE passes are blocked by snow. No word comes through, no message, and no letter. Only the eagles plane above the snow, And wolves come down upon the villages.
The barrier of mountains is the end. The edge of the world to us in wintry Persia.
We are self-contained, shut off.... Day after day the cold and marvelous sun

Rides in the cold, the pale, the marvelous heaven, Cutting the ice-buried folds of shadow Against the foot-hills where the snow begins.
So would I have it, pure in isolation, With scarcely a rumour of the varied world
Leaping the mountain-barrier in disturbance.
Are there not hearts that find their high fulfillment
Alone, with ice between them and their friends?
—V. Sackville-West, in The Spectator (London).

Corn Soup, Serving 6
1 1/2 cups corn
3 tablespoons chopped onions
1/2 cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
3 cups water
3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
4 cups milk
Mix all ingredients except butter, flour and milk. Cover and cook slowly 20 minutes in covered pan. Melt butter and add flour. When blended, add milk and corn mixture. Cook slowly and stir constantly three minutes. Serve in hot bowls.

Chicken and Noodle Ring
3 cups cooked noodles
1 cup chicken stock
2 tablespoons chopped, cooked onions
2 tablespoons chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped pimientos
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/2 cup diced, cooked chicken
Mix ingredients. Pour into buttered mold. Set in pan of hot water and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Unmold and surround with chicken sauce.

Chicken Sauce
4 tablespoons chicken fat
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups chicken stock
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/2 cup chicken, diced
Melt fat and add flour. Blend and add stock. Cook until creamy sauce forms. Stir constantly. Add rest of ingredients. Cook two minutes. Pour over and around mold. Garnish with parsley and serve at once.
To cook a chicken which is to be used for soup and creaming, select a hen, wash well and cut into serving pieces. Add one teaspoon of salt, and eight cups of water. Cover and cook slowly for two hours, or until the chicken falls from the bones.
Remove the chicken. Allow the stock and fat to cool. When the fat becomes firm it can be lifted from the stock.

St. Petersburg Now Has Civic Music Assn.

Members of the Civic Music Association in Dixon, will be interested in the news that the latest city to be added to those having such associations is St. Petersburg, famous winter resort city on the west coast of Florida. The recent membership campaign in St. Petersburg was so successful that there is positive assurance of the permanency of the association there with splendid concerts each winter season.

The season opened for St. Petersburg with a concert by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra on Feb. 1. The concert was attended by nearly 2,000 people, the entire Tampa membership being guests and many winter visitors who belong elsewhere being in the audience. Other concerts on the St. Petersburg program include Marion Claire on Feb. 14 and Barre Hill on Feb. 24. Because of its tourist character, St. Petersburg has a considerable number of association members from other cities who attend the concerts. Any association member from another place may gain admission on membership card from his or her own association.

Celebrated Golden Wedding on Sunday

On Sunday at 1 o'clock a bountiful dinner was served at "Fleur-de-Villa," the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Fraza, and children, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Oummer, 425 N. Lincoln Avenue, whose golden wedding anniversary on Friday.
Covers were laid for about thirty relatives and friends of the bride and bridegroom. Decorations of cut flowers were very pretty. A wedding cake, decorated with fifty tiny candles graced the bride's table. While the candles were burning, a wreath of gold, entwined with green, was placed upon the bride's head and a rosebud pinned on the bridegroom's coat lapel, a pretty ceremony.
After the delightful dinner the afternoon was happily spent in reminiscences of "ye olden times" and the singing of the old songs by the older guests and the bride and groom, which all enjoyed very much.
The estimable couple were married in Germany, Feb. 27th, 1881. They came to the United States about forty years ago and located near Elgin, Ill., where they lived until eleven years ago, when they moved to this city.

Many pretty gifts and beautiful flowers were presented the happy couple with the best wishes of all for many more years of future happiness. Those present for the enjoyable day were Rev. T. G. Flynn, Mrs. Mary Lahey, Mrs. Elizabeth Enichen, Mr. and Mrs. J. Knappe, Alois Dogwiler, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grove and son Jimmie, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Fraza and son Robert, all of this city; Mrs. Anna Bakman, Bartlett, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jike, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Furlong, of Aurora, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kebusch, Mrs. Clarence Hoth, Mrs. John Maguire, Jr., Elgin; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Wigmernann and daughters Betty and Frances O. West Chicago.

Birthday Party Honored Two Birthdays
A surprise birthday party honored two birthdays Saturday evening at the home of Carl Warner of Pine Creek. At this time the birthdays of Walter Mamma and Carl Warner were observed, thirty neighbors and friends gathering to enjoy the happy evening. A picnic supper was a feature of the occasion followed by games and music. The two gentlemen honored also received a number of nice gifts with the best wishes of the donors for future happy birthdays.

Agoga Class Meeting On Thursday Evening
Last Thursday evening the members of the Agoga Class of the First Baptist Sunday school held their regular meeting in the form of a picnic supper, followed by a short business meeting. A social hour was then enjoyed by everyone present. An unusually large number was present and it is to be hoped that the next meeting will be one hundred per cent.

FORMER DIXON BOY NOW SUPT. OF SO. PACIFIC

C. M. Murphy Made Head Of Salt Lake Div. Of Railroad

The following from the Ogden Standard-Examiner of Feb. 22, illustrated with an excellent likeness of C. M. Murphy, former Dixon boy and son of James Murphy, of 813 Highland Ave., and captioned "Mrs. S. P. Superintendent Has Record As Fighter", will be of interest to his many friends in Dixon:

A forceful man, with a good idea of what he is doing, what he wants and a straight-forward method of getting it is C. M. Murphy, new superintendent of the Salt Lake division of the Southern Pacific railroad, who came here January 1 to succeed C. F. Donatini.

A man of large stature, six feet two and weighing slightly under 200 pounds, keen blue eyes, a rather heavy shock of gray hair and a winning manner, he has already set himself solid in the chair of superintendent and taken over the reins of governing the vast dominion which is his.

Pleased With City
"I like Ogden," he barked, but there was no bite in his bark. "It's a good city. Why, darn it all, if you see a man twice here on the street he speaks to you and seems glad to do it. I never saw that before except where the fellow being so friendly was a confidence man."

"You have a great country here. Mrs. Murphy, the son and I have only been here since the first of the year, but it is home to me, and I boast for the town that's home."

"And the chamber of commerce. They have a fine spirit here and have shown a fine, friendly attitude. They can count on me to help them in any capacity or manner that I have the opportunity to accept."

While Mr. Murphy has fought his way up on the Southern Pacific over the past 25 years, railroading is only a small part of his liberal education.

In company with a great number of our prominent men of today, he has felt the swell of the ribs of a tired horse as he heaves a deep breath at the end of a day's hard riding, and has punched cows on considerable of the open space of this western country.

He has sailed also, and served his apprenticeship as a sailor when a young boy. On top of that he has been a newspaper man, working in Latin America, as he said, "trying to earn my board by pushing a pencil."

As a result of passing back and forth across the various borders he has picked up a good smattering of French and Spanish and also speaks several Mexican dialects.

Born In Illinois
He was born at Dixon, Ill., and his father is still living there. It is one of the oldest families of the city.

He got his first railroading experience on the Chicago & Northwestern, and has served on practically every division of the Southern Pacific Railroad, including the coast, Los Angeles, Tucson, Rio Grande, New Mexico and San Joaquin, and now the Salt Lake.

With the exception of two years and four months which he spent in the United States army during the World War, he has been with the Southern Pacific railroad for the past 25 years.

Mr. Murphy came from a fighting family. He is one of a large number of sons. His father served in India in the British army and many of his ancestors have been soldiers.

Mr. Murphy told a story as an illustration of his father's attitude "Shortly after I enlisted," he said, "I came through Dixon and stopped to see father."

"What are you doing here?" he exclaimed, "the fighting is across the water in Europe. And remember, son, when they shoot you, see that it is not in the back."

Called to Border
In 1916, when national guard troops were mobilized on the Mexican border, he was a representative of the American Railway association, handling transportation for these units.

While engaged in this work he was commissioned in the army reserve corps by the United States government. On May 1, 1917, just after the United States entered the World War he was mustered into army service as a captain at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

For better than one year and received the grade of major in the engineer corps. He served as division transportation officer with two combat divisions on the front and was later assigned to the intelligence arm of the service, covering a large part of western Europe. He was mustered out of the service in July, 1919, at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va. He still retains the commission of major in the engineer reserve corps, having charge of a reserve battalion among Southern Pacific employees.

While president of the Reserve Army Officers' association in Kern county, California, he organized the reserve army officers of Kings and Tulare counties, and at the present time is helping Governor Fred Balzar of Nevada, organize his national guard.

Large Spring Tasks
Approximately 500 additional men will be put to work by the Southern Pacific as soon as the weather breaks and the ground softens, Murphy reported. One construction job, involving rail renewal on the western end of the division, will take care of some 125 men, while a ballast job, between Elko and Alazon, will involve some 300 men.

An additional 75 men will be hired for 14 miles of rail work, at the east side of the trestle at Lakeside, and to operate the quarry at Lucin.

These figures are additional to the trainmen, who will naturally be involved in the work. Materials for the jobs are already on the ground, he said, and construction will start as soon as the weather permits.

PAW PAW NEWS

Paw Paw—Some people are now predicting that oats and perhaps other small grain will be sown this year earlier than ever before in the history of the county. The ground in many fields in this community is fit to work and farmers are anxious to get in the field.

Old timers tell about "way back when" but none of them can remember such a winter as the present one. Last Saturday was a real spring day, bees were thick about the hives as if they were about to go in the field in search for flowers. Robins have been seen, bushes are budding and all nature seemed to have put on the spirit of spring. In spite of all this many conservative old timers look to the future with fear and trembling.

The two story brick building on the south side of Main street occupied by Torman & Hill changed ownership this week. J. A. Warren purchased the building from A. T. Smith, subject to the lease of Torman & Hill and the Telephone Company. The transfer took place March 1. Torman & Hill's lease is for four years, and the Telephone Company also is also on a long term rental basis.

E. T. Tennant returned Friday from the hospital in Compton where he has spent the past five weeks and undergone two major operations. He is doing well, but is still confined to the house.

The Gaines family is moving this week from the Jenks farm on the Cottage Hill road to the G. A. Ramer farm northeast of town which has been leased to H. A. Knetsch. Mr. Gaines will work for Mr. Knetsch. J. E. Foster, recently moved here from Iowa, will farm the Jenks place.

Mrs. Cleve Drury and son Paul of Shabbona were Paw Paw visitors on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Howard Yenerich and daughter Arlene of Meriden spent Saturday night and Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Cornell while Mr. Yenerich spent the same time with his parents in Mendota helping to care for his sick father, Philip Yenerich who suffered a stroke a few weeks ago.

Those from here who attended the Golden Wedding anniversary recently held in Rochelle parents of Mrs. G. W. McBride were Mr. and Mrs. George W. McBride, Frank McBride, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Gibbs and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harper.

COST NOT ONLY PROBLEM FACING WHEAT GROWERS

Other Things Must be Considered By Illinois Farmers

Urbana, Ill., Mar. 3.—It cost Illinois farmers about 90 cents a bushel to grow wheat in 1930, but this does not settle the bothersome question of what they should do with the crop even under present price conditions, according to R. H. Wilcox of the farm organization and management department, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Other things besides costs must be considered in deciding whether wheat shall or shall not be grown on Illinois farms, he pointed out. A small-grain nurse crop such as wheat helps in getting the necessary hay and pasture crops started and also in a large part of the corn belt, there is less net expense in getting a new legume seedling where wheat is used than there is where available small grain crops are used. Even on farms where a nurse crop is not always necessary, some straw is needed for livestock. As a feed crop, wheat usually produces more total nutrients an acre than oats and often more than barley. As a result, it can be used to good advantage in the livestock program.

Furthermore, Wilcox pointed out, the crop can be handled by labor and machinery when there is little productive use for this labor in any other field work. There might be good reason to leave wheat out of the rotation if the labor demands of the crop conflicted seriously with the demands of the more profitable corn belt crops such as corn and the legumes, he said.

It costs about 93 cents a bushel to grow wheat in the St. Louis wheat and dairy area, according to cost figures gathered by the college. Land there is valued at about $80 an acre and it takes approximately 12 man hours and 24 horse hours to grow an acre of wheat. Allowing 18 cents a hour for man labor, and 9 cents an hour for horse labor, and adding these to the other items of expense, an acre of wheat producing 18 bushels costs $16.75 in the St. Louis area.

In east central Illinois where land varies in value from $125 to $175 an acre it costs about 85 cents a bushel to grow wheat, according to figures kept by a group of farmers for the college. In that area it requires about 10 hours of man labor, 16 hours of horse use and an hour and one-half of tractor time to grow an acre of winter wheat. Under current wage rates of 25 cents a man hour, 10 cents a horse hour and 75 cents an hour for the tractor, along with other items of cost as they now exist, it takes $24 an acre to grow a $27 bushel wheat crop in east central Illinois.

Weekly Review of Agriculture by Farmers Paper

Chicago, Ill.—(AP)—Moderate expansion in business activity since the first of the year, although largely of a seasonal nature, has improved the general farm outlook, the Prairie Farmers market review said. Partial breaking of the drought has tended to dissipate gloom in sections which have suffered from that cause. "Prices for better grades of cattle rallied moderately early in the third week of February, but the upturn failed to hold," the review said. "Dressed beef and by-product prices continued week, the declining hog market was an adverse factor, and the light receipts were partly counterbalanced by the small replacement demand from feeders. Receipts of choice cattle are extremely light, giving them little independent strength. Nevertheless only two loads passed $11 at Chicago in the last few days. The average cost of killing steers on that market is between $8.50 and the lowest since 1923. Prices for stocker and feeder cattle have dropped to new low levels.

"After showing signs of making bottom during December and early January, the hog market has turned quite soft in the last four weeks. Prices have approached the lowest level reached in the 1923-24 depression period, with the present Chicago top standing at $7.50. Narrow demand has been the chief source of trouble.

"In spite of a tendency to hold back lambs in Colorado and Western Nebraska feeding districts, receipts at leading markets continue heavy and are rather consistently larger than the excessive supplies at this time a year ago. With both cattle and hog prices declining, any rise of consequence in fat lambs seems unlikely. The top of the market at Chicago reached $9.50 level three different times but has been unable to hold this position. Stronger demand for wool has spread and revived confidence in the market.

"Wheat prices are still being maintained by the Grain Stabilization Corporation at the levels established in late November. Since they are considerably above the world level, the possibility of rise in domestic old crop prices above those now prevailing rests entirely upon substantial damage to the new crop. The uncertainty in world wheat prices has been somewhat stronger recently.

"Light receipts of feed grains have been offset by sluggish demand, causing prices to sag gradually. Corn prices particularly have been weak and are close to the lowest level of the season. The effect of mild weather in conserving supplies and influence of low prices for livestock products on demand for corn are showing up rather strongly.

"The seasonal gain in egg production got an early start this year, influenced partly by the mild weather, and receipts are now about 25 per cent larger than at the corresponding period a year ago. Some liquidation of laying flocks has taken place already and more is apt to come as a result of the drastic break in country egg prices. Prices are believed to be close to the spring low point.

"Favorable movement of butter in to consumption has had a steady influence on prices recently. Prices in domestic markets are new as world prices. In spite of the sharp reduction in values, production continues heavy."

Facts For Farm Folks Prepared By Farm Experts

ALL MASH FOR CHICKS

By J. H. Bodwell

Did you ever notice the difference in temperament of a team of horses when worked and when idle? If they are worked steadily every day they are quiet and peaceful, but give them a lot of rest and they become uneasy, stall one another, paw and kick the stall they are in. In fact, sometimes they become vicious and actually bite one another.

This same principle holds true with chicks. If they have a chance to become idle they will pick at one another and cannibalism will develop much more rapidly than if they are kept busy at all times.

If they have access to scratch grains their crops become filled up quicker and it takes longer for the scratch grains to digest than it does for mash. Consequently they will have more idle hours during the day where scratch grains are fed than when the all mash system is used.

Another advantage of the all mash system is that there is more protein present and more different types of protein are present in the all mash, where as in scratch grain there is no animal source whatever. In order for baby chicks to grow rapidly and to fatten quickly, many sources of protein must be available for the chick and a much more economical growth will be had where both the animal source and vegetable source are present.

Again in the mash more mineral will be present than will be the case of scratch. Where dried buttermilk or skim milk is mixed in with the mash it enables the chickens to get their source of milk much more evenly than in any other way. This also is a wonderful source of vitamins for the baby chicks and helps to give the succulence which would not be secured if only scratch grains were fed.

To sum up the advantages of an all mash system: It keeps the chicks busier throughout the day; it supplies the chicks with many sources of proteins; it enables a better distribution to the chicks of milk and vitamins it contains and, furthermore, it insures a better distribution to the chicks of the minerals which are so essential for uniform growth.

Weekly Letter From Priebe To Poultry Raisers

Are you feeling as good as I am about the recent advance in the poultry and egg markets?

It wasn't much, to be sure, but it was enough so that a person can begin to get interested in hatching chicks. Of course, nobody can be sure that the market won't go down a little, but I don't think it will ever be as low as it has been. I believe that prices on poultry and eggs have hit bottom and are beginning to come back.

Farmers have been watching the prices of produce and some of them I know had about decided it would hardly pay them to raise chickens this year. I told them that the prices now didn't make much difference as far as their year's profit was concerned. What counts is what

These Kids Never Saw a Cow

When 25 per cent of the elementary school children in Los Angeles admitted in a recent survey that they never seen a cow, and 60 per cent said they had never seen a calf, the school board immediately sponsored a tour of this "bovine limousine," shown here as it began its rounds of the 294 grade schools. The motor car and its occupants, two cows and two calves, proved of absorbing interest to the city-bred youngsters.

chickens will be worth by the time you have some ready to sell.

I've been watching these prices go up and down for fifty-eight years and right now it looks to me as if they're headed up, and I think they are going to be a lot better this year.

I'm not saying that everybody who raises chickens this year is going to make money on them. You know there are some farmers who use all the latest methods in raising chicks, but when it comes to raising chickens they think they can still do it just like their grandfathers did and make money at it.

It can't be done. If you want to make money on chickens today, you have got to raise good stock, give the chickens good feed, and take care of them properly.

You can't let chickens just grow up any more. You've got to raise them. And if you're willing to take the trouble to do it properly, you'll make more money on poultry than on anything else you've got on the farm.

I told one friend of mine that if he had four-pound spring chickens by the Fourth of July, he'd get three times as much for them as he could get for hogs, and that if they weighed four pounds by the first of September, he'd still get twice as much for them. He's going to try it—maybe to prove I'm wrong, I don't know. But we'll see!

A lot of farmers have asked me what kind of chickens I thought they ought to raise, and next week I'm going to write you what I think about that.

Yours for better chickens,

Facts For Farmer

By RONALD VAN TINE

(United Press Farm Editor)

Washington—(UP)—Good management of a farm includes more than ability to understand crops and their planting.

Perhaps few farmers realize the importance of keeping their work animals in good condition. A horse or mule that is very thin requires a long fitting period. Usually the first step in conditioning work stock is gradually to change the animal's ration from the coarse feed, commonly used during the winter, to a ration of good-quality hay and light feeds of grain daily.

This gradual change prepares the digestive tract for the consumption of increased quantities of grain, together with hay, which will be needed by animals in heavy work, such as plowing, disking and hauling.

In many instances this year, it will be necessary for farmers to modify the regular spring procedure by taking special care to build up the strength of weakened animals that have been on short rations for many months and which may be suffering from parasites or undernutrition. For this building-up process a longer fitting period will be required and animals should not be denied feed of the right kind and quantity.

Proper grooming is a valuable aid in promoting the proper functioning of bodily activity and in improving the general health of the animal. If animals are expected to do hard work, there is no satisfactory substitute for ample concentrated food of good quality.

RENTED TRACTS FROM FARMERS, SANCTUARIES

Proposal Is Made By Senator Searcy: Farmers Asked To Aid

Springfield, Ill.—(UP)—Rented tracts from farmers for use as wild bird and game sanctuaries by the state were advocated in a proposal for radical revision of methods of conservation in Illinois by Senator Earl B. Searcy, republican, Springfield.

Searcy, who for the last four years has served as chairman of the Illinois Uniform Fish and Game Laws Commission, declares that his plan, if adopted, would spread conservation to every part of the state and would do away with the purchase of isolated land tracts, the value of which to the state, Searcy said, is doubtful at best.

"In my judgment," said Searcy "unless the state has, or can have, the entire cooperation of farm land owners, any attempt at conservation of wild bird and game life in Illinois is a failure."

"The Department of Conservation receives each year from individuals who buy hunting and fishing license a large amount of money. My plan calls for putting most of that money into leasing of ten to twenty acre tracts from farmers. These tracts would be leased on a cash rental basis from the farmers, fenced in, and permitted to grow high in weeds and clovers. These sanctuaries would be absolutely protected at all times.

"If Illinois could lease, say, close to fifty thousand acres, at an average rental of around seven dollars per acre, it would serve a double purpose.

"First, the matter of game conservation would be met. In addition to that, the state would intelligently take out of cultivation a large aggregate acreage of land. This ought to make toward solving the problem of agricultural surplus. If every state would adopt this system, it seems to me the effect would be strikingly beneficial.

"Men and women who pay their annual license fees for hunting, are entitled to an honest expenditure of that money. It does not come from general taxation, but the responsibility is just as heavy as if it did. On occasions in the past, I am told, lands have been bought by the state in order to enable the owners, who happened to have the right political friends, to pay debts. There is a time and place for everything, but that sort of thing is not fair to the hunters of Illinois who pay in this money.

"I very much doubt the wisdom of the state being empowered to buy such lands, unless it be in pursuance of a definite bond issue or similar policy, approved by the people. I think the needs of conservation in Illinois would be vastly better served if farmers in every part of the state were actively and profitably interested.

Farm Radio Program

Reviews of the markets for the principal classes of livestock and reports of the division of crop and livestock estimates in the Bureau of Agricultural Economics will be consumed much of the time of the Department of Agriculture periods in the National Farm and Home Hour to be broadcast during the week beginning Monday, March 9, by a network of forty associated stations of the National Broadcasting Company.

The complete program for the week follows:

MONDAY, March 9—"March Cattle Markets," by C. V. Whelan, marketing specialist, Bureau of Agricultural Economics; "Handling Work Stock this Spring," by S. R. Speelman, animal husbandman, Bureau of Animal Industry.

TUESDAY, March 10—"The Garden Calendar," by W. R. Beattie, horticulturist, Bureau of Plant Industry; "How Much Grain on Farms?" by W. F. Callanore, chairman, Federal Crop Reporting Board, Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

WEDNESDAY, March 11—"March Hog Markets," by C. A. Burmeister, economist, Bureau of Agricultural Economics; "The March Sheep Situation," by C. L. Harlan, livestock statistician, Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

THURSDAY, March 12—"The Household Calendar," by Rowena Schmidt Carpenter, home economist, Bureau of Home Economics; second speaker to be announced.

FRIDAY, March 13—"The Farm Business Library," by M. S. Eisenhower, Director of Information, United States Department of Agriculture; "The Week with the Farm Board," by Edgar Markham, assistant to the chairman, Federal Farm Board; second farm board speaker to be announced.

The National Farm and Home Hour is broadcast from 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. Central Standard Time.

Many hog raisers find that their big losses come before weaning time. Dr. W. E. Carroll, head of the department of swine husbandry of the University of Illinois, who has made a study of this loss, will open the week of Swift & Company broadcasts over WLS Monday, March 9, at 12:40 noon, speaking on this subject.

On Tuesday, March 10, at 2:00 p. m. Mrs. Berne Welch of Peru, Ind., will tell a story of what some farm women have done to make a "Profit from a Farm Surplus."

An Iowa farmer, Sam DeFosse of Fruitland, speaks March 12, at 12:40 noon, on the subject "Fifteen Years on Muscatine Island." His talk will be his own story of commercial fertilizers.

At 12:40 noon on March 10 and 11, programs honoring respectively Charlevoix, Mich., Glen Elyn, Ill., and Muncie Ind., will be broadcast. Music mostly old-time tunes, will be furnished by the Swift Rangers.

Hog Feeding Schools Are Being Arranged

Urbana, Ill.—(UP)—Hog feeding schools will be held in more than 100 different communities throughout Illinois during the next few weeks, according to an announcement today by E. T. Robbins, livestock extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

The feeding school's are being held in response to the popular appreciation of those already held by the college and by county farm advisors, Robbins said.

Reports from Lee Long, assistant farm adviser of Vermilion county, agree with those from other counties in reflecting a determination on the part of farmers to raise hogs on the best possible money making basis this year. Long has been holding one of two local hog feeding schools a week in Bureau county, Farm Adviser W. W. Wilson already has held nine local hog feeding schools this month with a total attendance of 380 farmers. Other counties from which reports of local schools have been made are Edwards, Henderson, Macoupin, Edgar, Marshall, Champaign and Carroll.

The local schools are a continuation of a program begun last November when Robbins began holding county schools for the purpose of training farm advisers and local project leaders in the fine points of sanitation and economical feeding. Those who attended the county schools are now passing the information along to their neighbors through the medium of local community schools. Forty two counties are emphasizing the work and several others have made some progress with it, Robbins reported.

Grind Your Feed For Best Results

All kinds of grain should be ground for cattle if full value is to be derived from their use. Analysis of droppings at the Purdue experiment station show that as high as 35 per cent of whole corn and 25 per cent of whole oats pass through cows, undigested. When the grain is cracked as high as 10 per cent of the corn and 2 per cent of the oats is lost, while with properly ground grain less than 2 per cent of the corn and practically none of the oats is lost.

Much of the unground grain is never chewed. A whole kernel of corn, oats, barley, kafir or other grains often goes through the animal completely untouched by any digestive action. The small hard grains like kafir, rye, and barley often show losses of one-half if not ground. Proof of this is shown by the fact that hogs thrive when following cattle.

The fact that grain prices are low might tempt some feeders to allow a larger amount of grain to make up for a lack of protein supplements, but this substitution does not work out right. Better results are obtained if the amount of grain is cut down and the amount of linseed meal or other protein supplement is increased, for protein is one of the most important factors in obtaining both high milk production and gain in weight. The ration must be balanced if the grain is to do the best work for any kind of livestock.

Barley Growers Warned Of Treble

Urbana, Ill.—(AP)—Illinois farmers, who are now growing about seven times as much barley as they did 15 years ago, should beware of a variety known as Treble which has been brought in from the dry western states, L. F. Rickey, associate in grain marketing technology at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, announced today.

Even a small amount of this type will ruin the chances of a car of barley selling for malting or pearling purposes, uses which bring growers a substantial premium, he pointed out.

For Illinois conditions, Wisconsin Pedigree No. 37 or No. 38 are recommended from all standpoints, Rickey advised.

Under western conditions, Treble yields well, but here at Urbana in 1930 it yielded less than varieties which are much more desirable, Rickey reported. It made 49 bushels to the acre, as compared to 52 bushels for Wisconsin Pedigree No. 37. Treble has rougher, barbed beards and dark, hard kernels. Better yielding varieties have smooth beards and bright, mellow kernels. One lot of Treble hauled to an elevator may ruin several carloads for the high-priced uses, Rickey pointed out. Mixing of seed by threshing machines and other agencies would have the same effect.

ONE ARKANSAN FINDS DROUGHT CAN BE BEATEN

Farmer With Family Of Nine Still Living At His Home

Paragould, Ark.—(AP)—Here is the story of one farmer who beat the drought in Arkansas.

John Gwyn, a farmer near here, has a family of nine, but his crops have been fair and he is "living at home" while his neighbors seek help from the Red Cross.

The Gwyn farm usually is planted to 32 acres in corn, 34 acres of cotton, five acres of hay, one and a quarter acres of potatoes, a large vegetable garden, a home orchard consisting of apples, peaches, pears, plums, grapes, blackberries and other small fruits.

No Expense For Feed Usually there is both hay and corn to sell, but this year there is an abundance of feed for the livestock until the next crop is gathered. Gwyn said he had purchased no feed in 15 years.

Feed is provided for five head of work stock, four good milk cows, 25 to 30 hogs and 100 hens that are kept for layers besides the young chickens that are used on the table and marketed. Gwyn has sold $116 worth of hogs this season and has 16 for the market.

The four cows have furnished plenty of cream, milk and butter for the family, skim milk for hogs and chickens and $175 worth of cream for sale during the year.

Much Fruit Canned The chickens, the garden and orchard have furnished their share of food for the table. Sale of eggs brought $40 in cash and $110 worth of sweet potatoes were marketed. The cotton acreage this year yielded 20 bales and as production costs are kept to a minimum, it will show a reasonable profit.

Mrs. Gwyn has a pressure cooker and makes it her rule to can enough fruit to last two seasons; in case late frosts injure the fruit crop, there will still be canned fruit on the pantry shelves.

The 60-acre farm has paid for itself and furnished means for building comfortable barns, good storage houses and a modern home. Four of the seven children are in school. The Gwyns account for their success by reason of the fact that they first worked out a plan that enables them to have plenty of feed and food at all times, then the selection of several cash enterprises, so there will be money coming in from various sources.

Dept. Of Agriculture Has Quarantine Power

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 3.—(AP)—The Department of Agriculture has authority to issue quarantine orders to prevent the spread of rabies, and the Governor has no authority to proclaim quarantine or release of quarantine. Attorney-General Oscar E. Carlstrom said today in an advisory opinion given Dr. W. H. Welch, chief veterinarian.

The opinion was given at the original request of J. H. Wright, assistant general solicitor of the Illinois Central railroad, which asked its duties as to shipment of dogs out of territory that may have been quarantined. Mr. Wright said he did not know whether Governor Len Small or Governor Louis L. Emmerson had released Cook county from quarantine proclaimed by Governor Small, May 25, 1928.

The Attorney-General suggested that the veterinarian make a new survey of the state and on the basis of that survey issue new comprehensive quarantine orders and declare all other orders null and void.

TO STUDY TARIFF NEEDS

Washington, Mar. 2.—(UP)—The House Ways and Means committee today approved two resolutions providing for investigations during the recess to be used as a basis for legislation in the next Congress for a tariff or embargo on oil, coal, lumber, managanes, asbestos and agricultural products. The committee planned to call up the resolution in the House late today.

IT PAYS To Grow Healthy Chicks THE RED COMB WAY Quality in Poultry and Eggs is Necessary These Days

You can produce the best in quality at the most economical rate by feeding RED COMB and following RED COMB methods—with RED COMB Chick Starter and RED COMB Growing Mash, it's quick growth and deep yellow shanks; with RED COMB Egg Mash, it's eggs of highest interior quality..

With each new development in brooding methods the importance of feed has increased. RED COMB is kept abreast of the times through continual research and experimentation.

RED COMB Chick Starter produces color, growth and flavor in chicks in confinement equal to that obtained on open range.

RED COMB Chick Starter is unequalled in gains per pound of feed.

RED COMB Chick Starter contains all vitamins concerned with poultry. Additional feeding of cod liver oil is not necessary.

RED COMB Chick Starter simplifies feeding methods. Simply keep the food before the chicks the first eight weeks.

RED COMB Chick Starter gives absolute protection from rickets or leg-weakness under most extreme confinement.

More Profits In Quality Eggs

There is a demand for quality eggs. This statement is borne out by a recent survey of produce men, large egg dealers, restaurants and hotels as well as the final judge, the consumer. All agree that eggs produced on the improved RED COMB have both outward and interior qualifications that appeal to any buyer and command a premium price.

Eggs produced on the Improved RED COMB are outstanding in their quality—thick viscous white with a relatively small percentage of the thin or outer white; strong, round yolk evenly colored a lemon shade and that appetizing flavor that can be connected with none other than a quality egg. Such quality contents sealed in a smooth, strong shell are in great contrast to eggs of "questionable character"—thin watery whites, dark or off-colored yolks that may be weak or broken down, distasteful flavors and weak shells.

DIXON AGGIES

WIN 17-5 FROM R. FALLS TEAM

Took Lead Right Off the Bat And Were Never Headed

The Dixon high school aggies defeated the Rock Falls high school aggies Saturday evening by a score of 17 to 5. The Dixon team looked small compared to the Rock Falls "six-footers," but made up for their lack of size with their speedy floor work. At the opening whistle Dixon was ahead 6 to 1, and by the half time were leading 9 to 2. Rock Falls came back for the second half with lots more fight and determination but could get no where through Dixon's defense.

During the third quarter two substitutes were sent in for Dixon at the guard positions. With four minutes left to play three more substitutions were made for Dixon, making an entirely new team than had started the game. It was at this point of the game that Rock Falls made their only basket. L. Bellows was high point man for Dixon with four baskets. Thomas, Rock Falls center, was the outstanding player for the visiting team. The teams lined up as follows:

Kunz Disposes Of Stable Of Losers

Chicago, Mar. 3.—(AP)—Stanley Kunz of Chicago, former Congressman, whose race horses became famous on Chicago tracks and elsewhere because they usually finished last, today is without his stable after 40 years of connection with the turf.

Kunz disposed of his 42 thoroughbreds because he no longer could withstand the financial burden. The stables was sold to the estate of the late Charles Dean of Palatine, Ill., harness racing ace, and will be operated by his sons, Charles, Ben and Jerry.

The horses raced by Kunz, among them Deerfield, Princess Pan, Ma-

FREED OF AWFUL PAIN, SUFFERING BY NEW GLY-CAS

All Else Had Failed to Reach Stubborn Case of Stomach, Nerve Trouble, Rheumatism.

"Gly-Cas was just the medicine I had needed all along," said Mrs. Gale Rupp, 507 Fifth Street, Dodge City, Kansas. "Most of my life I have been constipated, stomach was out of order, bloated, suffered severely, was so nervous I could not sleep or get my rest. Rheumatism settled in my hips and knees, pained terribly. I was in an awful condition until I began taking Gly-Cas. Now this new herbal remedy has regulated my bowels, rid me of that awful stomach trouble. I can eat most anything I want now without any ill effect afterwards, my nerves are greatly improved, sleep well, get my rest and even that awful rheumatism has left my body entirely. Gly-Cas action is remarkable, it freed me of that awful pain and suffering and restored my health when all else flatly failed.

MRS. GALE RUPP

Gly-Cas is no ordinary medicine. In case after case where seemingly everything else had failed, Gly-Cas gives complete relief.

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon by Schildberg's Pharmacy, 301 First Street and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

Jesse, Bottoms Up and Cold Cream were famous for their habits of finishing last and farther back than entrants from any other stables. However, on rare occasions when they came in, their mutual ticket prices resembled numbers on a box car. About five years ago, Bottoms Up staggered to victory at Aurora and paid plenty. Three years later, Kunz horse popped in, Majestic beating a band of maidens at Arlington Park and paying off in clearing house figures.

Fifteen months elapsed before the next and last Kunz horse won. During the fall meeting at Hawthorne last season, Deerfield came to life and bowed to the folks in the grand stand, paying $76.80 for each $2 mutual ticket. And they say that Kunz didn't have a dime on the horse.

Kunz personally trained his thoroughbreds. He was on the grounds every morning at dawn to supervise their workouts. His famous walking sticks and white goater, like a traditional Kentucky Colonel, were landmarks on any race track, where he good naturedly stood up under the abuse and wisecracks from racing folks about his stable of losers.

Baseball Gossip

By United Press
Avalon, Catalina Island, Cal.—A regulation nine-inning game was on schedule today for Manager Rogers Hornsby's Chicago Cubs.

Exceptionally warm weather is frying some of the fat off Jess Petty, pitcher, and was credited with returning Zack Taylor to his normal health after a light attack of flu.

Tucson, Ariz.—The Arizona State League became a second International League in fact, if not in name, today with the admission of the Nogales, Son., Internationals, replacing Miami Ariz. which gave up its franchise in the circuit.

The Internationals will be composed largely of Mexican players in order to gain the support of fans below the Mexican border. Business men of Nogales Sonora and Nogales, Ariz., have agreed to support the team.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Six pounds than he was at the state of 1930 training season, Babe Ruth today was among the Yankee drill squad. Meryl Hoag, $75,000 Pacific Coast recruit, Pipgras, who is convalescing from an appendicitis operation, and Andrews, a rookie pitcher, were the only absentees from the camp today.

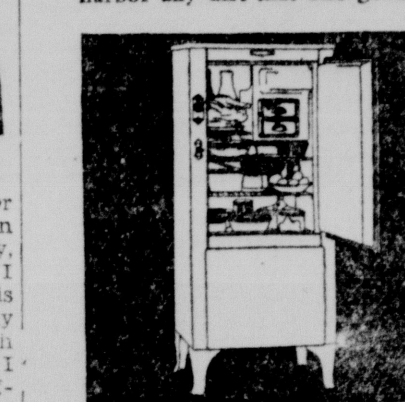

San Antonio, Tex.—All the White Sox regulars with the exception of Catcher Moe Berg, were in camp here today.

Although reports have it that Willie Kamm is to be traded to Cleveland before the season opens, Kamm's work has indicated that he expects to play for the Sox and no other team. His work at third has been nothing short of sensational for so early in the season.

SCHMELING HAS NO PLACE IN HIS LIFE FOR WOMEN

But When He Finishes With Fighting He Plans Marriage

BY EDWARD J. NEIL

New York—(AP)—Some day, when Max Schmeling is through with fistcutting, he is going to marry some nice, solid German home-body and settle down to enjoy life. In the meantime no dazzling ladies need apply. It's a waste of time.

This engaging young teuton never has had a "steady" girl. Furthermore he doesn't want one. He'll walk out politely but casually from a gathering if too much female attention is focused upon him. He doesn't like actresses. He's very proper.

Schmeling hates to be under obligation to anyone. Insists on paying for everything he gets. Gifts embarrass him. But each trip here from Germany he brings newspapermen cuckoo clocks or dachshund pups. Gets personal records to the cent of what he earns and figures out himself what he owes the government in income taxes. At this moment he could tell you to the penny just what he is worth.

No Apparent Nerves
Apparently he has no nerves though his mind is keen and active. He learns amazingly fast. Until he sailed for New York he had never stepped on a dance floor. He thought dancing took a young man into the wrong environment, kept him indoors when he should be out in the open air, up late at night when he should be sleeping.

"Everyone dances but Max," he told Bill McCarney, his traveling partner. "That is not good. Maybe I learn."

McCarney, at one time or another, had been a dancing instructor. He volunteered to take Max in hand. They took to their cabin. Four hours later the professor staggered out for refreshments and Max went looking for music. With perfect confidence he was the first on the dance floor. He danced as though he's been practicing all his life.

Nothing seems to ruffle him in or out of a ring. His actions have been under newspaper fire here and in Germany so long that when on the continent he won't allow wine or beer to be served to companions in public places. He neither drinks nor smokes.

"I must be careful," he insists, "then no one can say I dissipate."

Sings March Songs
He sings German marching songs in his time on the roadwork. He never goes into a ring without a fixed plan of battle and he changes it himself if necessary without reference to his handlers. He drives a car fast and prefers to travel by air. He missed by one flight the crash of a passenger plane in the west that cost several lives.

Once Schmeling goes to bed all noise must cease. There are no alarm clocks in his scheme of things. He sleeps until he awakens of his own accord. He eats frequently but lightly.

Radio and golf are his twin hobbies. He carries a portable radio on trips. His golf is mediocre. He likes opera and children. He called off an exhibition when he was in Baltimore recently and passed up a $1,500 guarantee because it would have interfered with a trip he wanted to make to the industrial school where Babe Ruth and Joe Dundee once lived.

"Boys with no papas, no mamas, we go there," Max insisted.

He met Dempsey, a country boy viewing a king, when the former champion made a triumphant tour in 1926. Three years later Max stepped from a plane in Los Angeles and there was a crowd there to cheer him. Dempsey stood on the rim. Schmeling saw him, rushed through the crowd, his hands extended.

"Chack, Chack," he said. "Look—Berlin—here."

If he hadn't become a prize fighter he would still solicit advertising for some Berlin newspaper. He likes newspaper work. You meet so many interesting people and "no puns advertise," he says.

SPORT BRIEFS

Chicago, Mar. 3.—(UP)—"I'll win by a knockout," boasted King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, in commenting today on his 10 round bout with Tuffy Griffiths at the Chicago Stadium mfyay night. The odds, however, mounted on Griffiths, who is quoted a 2-1 favorite.

Chicago, Mar. 3.—(UP)—The National A. A. U. wrestling championships have been definitely set for March 19, 20 and 21 at the Illinois Athletic Club. Athletic Director John W. Behr announced today. Entries will close March 12.

Evansville, Ill., Mar. 3.—(UP)—Only twelve varsity men are numbered among the 60 candidates who have started spring training for the 1931 Northwestern football team. Coach Dick Hanley plans to devote most of his attention to the newcomers in order to have them thoroughly familiar with his system when practice opens this fall. Northwestern's first two games are with Nebraska and Notre Dame.

New York, March 3.—(UP)—Ray Ruddy, member of the 1928 American Olympic swimming team, and named the ninth best athlete in the country by the A. A. U. recently, has withdrawn from Columbia where he was ineligible to compete because of scholastic difficulties.

Ruddy, holder of several records, plans to continue his swimming activities as a member of the New York A. C. He probably will return to Columbia in September.

The Pas, Manitoba, March 3.—(UP)—In an attempt to complete the season without a defeat, Emile St. Godard and his dog team set out today along the 200 mile path of the annual racing classic of the north-lan.

With three triumphs in the east already to his credit this season, the young French-Canadian needs only a victory in this non-stop race to Film Flon and return to complete a "grand slam." To be in front when the huskies dash across the finish line some time tomorrow would make him undisputed champion of all North American dog racers.

The defending champion is Earl Brydges.

KILLIFER WILL MAKE CHANGES IN HIS OUTFIT

Browns To Display New Faces When They Start Season

BY ALAN GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor)
West Palm Beach, Fla., Mar. 2.—(AP)—The slogan of the St. Louis Browns this year is "off with the old; on with the new." It includes the baseball, at least half the infield, a portion of the outfield and the general structure of the club.

Keen and kindly Bill Killefer, one time battery-mate of Grover Cleveland Alexander is still manager, starting his fifth term, but he has launched a radical program of reconstruction, designed to pull the Browns out of the rut.

This program's chief feature is Killefer's attempt to introduce into major league company at least half, and possibly three-fourths of the "pony infield" that performed record-breaking defensive tricks for the Wichita Falls club of the Texas League last year.

Plucked from scattered points, kept under cover and drilled for fast company at the Browns' farm, the trio up for the big test now are Shortstop Jim Levy, rangy Jewish lad obtained from the Quantico Marine Corps; First Baseman Irving Burns, Irish boy from New England; Second Baseman Lin Storti, Italian product of west Texas.

The fourth member of the quartet that set a fast record of double play records in the Texas League, including seven in one game, was Walter Buller, a German now with Milwaukee.

Burns and Levy have performed sensationally in the early workouts. Storti has been drilling well at second but faces keen competition from the veteran Oscar Melillo, representing with the regulars this week.

To Keep Veterans

With Levy at short, Killefer plans to shift the hard-hitting Ralph Kress to third base. If Burns makes good at first, it will mean the passing from active duty of Lu Blue, for years one of the league's best first sackers. The veterans, however, will be kept so that two complete infields will be available.

The club needs more outfield punch. The big gun is the veteran Goose Goslin, who laid aside his golf sticks this week for his bats. Killefer expects the Goose to hit at least 50 home runs, even with the new ball in use. The Browns have not yet received the new ball for testing.

Fred Schulte probably will hold down centerfield but he will have to battle Earl McNeely. Perhaps the best looking prospect for right field is Larry Bettencourt, former St. Mary's All-American center, who battled 320 and hit 43 homers with Wichita Falls last season. His rivals are Tom Jenkins, who hit 345 with Milwaukee; and Frank Wadde, former Georgia Tech footballer who hit 344 with Memphis last season. Wadde has been a holdout.

Wally Stewart, slim southpaw who won 20 games and lost 12 with a second division outfit last season, is the ace of the pitchers. The veteran Sam Gray, after a hard luck season, reported with the rookies to begin a come-back. George Blahodier, a protracted holdout a year ago, is in the fold. The staff has other seasoned performers in Dick Coffman, Warren Collins, Chad Kinsey and "Lena" Stiles.

"Most of the boys are picking us to finish last," smiled Killefer. "You can do the same thing without hurting our feelings. We are making experiments. We have better reserve strength. If the infield shapes up and we get more punch to help Goslin and Kress, the Browns will be on their way up."

Istanbul —(UP)—Fifteen sacks of walnuts, each nut being stuffed with opium, were seized on a ship here.

CUBS REMEMBER HARD LUCK OF LAST SEASON

Therefore No One Vouchsafes Any Prediction For Team

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., Mar. 3.—(AP)—The spectre of last year's ill-fated happenings which went a long way toward keeping the club from a National League pennant, has put caution on the tongues of those who would like to prophecy a great year for the Chicago Cubs.

Rogers Hornsby, playing manager, who figured prominently in these disastrous occurrences, steadfastly refuses to predict, although he willingly admits that the pitching prospects are much better than last season and the rest of the squad holds greater promise.

William Wrigley, Jr. whose money has made this possible vouchsafes that this the "best outfit he has ever seen assembled here," but he recalls the untimely death of Harold Carlson, veteran pitcher; Hornsby with a broken leg and Lester Bell and Riggs Stephenson with arm injuries and will not forget his club's chances.

Pitching Staff Good

The pitching staff is so good the Rajah is puzzled as to just whose names will be crossed off the roster. He contemplates keeping eleven of the sixteen who reported here.

Besides such veterans as Charles Root, Guy Bush, Pat Mullin, Sheriff Blake, at least two of the rookies hold promise and three tried and proven hurlers from Boston, Cincinnati and Philadelphia are helping to make the spring training grind a cheerful one.

Of these, Bob Smith obtained from the Braves and Lester Sweetland from the Phillies, stand out in particular, while Frank May, like Sweetland, a powerful left hander, is counted on to turn in his usual victories over the New York Giants.

A pair of right handers stand out over the group of five newcomers. Big

Ed Baecht, whose curve ball earned him 26 victories with Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League last year and a chance with the Cubs, has taken into big league hurling well, while Hornsby has also been impressed with the work of a strapping Arkansas youth, Lon Warneke, who came up from Reading, Pa., of the International League.

The Rajah will not overlook Art Teachout, youthful southpaw who finished last season strong, as well as Bob Osborn of last year's staff.

Regular Outfield

Although Hornsby says without hesitation that he figures to use Hack Wilson, Riggs Stephenson and Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler as his regular outfield, he is pleased with the spring training bat work of Johnny Moore, up for the second time from Los Angeles, and Vincent Martin, a big Canadian from Baltimore. They both hit 342 last year.

There has been some talk of shifting Wilson to right field, where his fly chasing activities will be less, in an effort to increase his 356 batting average and the home run record for the senior circuit of 56 four-base hits. Stephenson's arm appears to be in good shape again.

Rogers intends to play right through at second base, regardless of his managerial handicap, and contemplates using the same infield as last year with Charles Grimm at first, Elwood English at short and Lester Bell at third. Bell spent the winter working his throwing arm into shape and reported it to be in better condition at the start of training than it was all last season.

For these reasons, those who are so privileged would like to predict a great year—but hold their tongues, lest lightning strike twice in the same place.

WALK IN RAIN FOR PAY

Naugatuck, Conn.—(UP)—A group of girls employed by a rubber goods concern here make their living by walking in the rain. Wearing the latest fashion in rubber footwear, they tramp the streets to subject them to winter weather tests. They are paid by the hour.

CAT FINDS CONSTRICTOR

Folkestone, Eng.—(UP)—A cat found a baby boa constrictor, three feet long, in a crate of bananas shipped here from the West Indies.

PETROLLE AND KING TUT MUST EXPLAIN FIGHT

Change In Betting At Last Minute Is Cause Of Investigation

By HENRY McEMORE

United Press Staff Correspondent
New York, Mar. 3.—(UP)—Billy Petrolle of Fargo, N. D., and King Tut of Minneapolis, were to appear before the New York Boxing Commission today in an effort to prove their fight in Madison Square Garden last Friday night was strictly on the up and up.

Everyone connected with the scrap, from the principals and Matchmaker Tom McCordle of the Garden to the waterboys, has been summoned to the commission's meeting. All will be given an opportunity to express their views of the bout which ended in a fourth-round knockout by Petrolle.

Suspicion is pointed at the fight for several reasons, but principally because of the sudden and last minute shift in the betting odds. As the preliminaries started Tut was being quoted at even money had 6 to 5. By the time the two principals climbed through the ropes Petrolle had been installed as an 8 to 5 favorite.

This sudden change of heart by the boys who lay it on the line was interpreted by many to mean that Petrolle despite him 34-second knockout at the hands of the King less than two weeks before, was certain to win.

Belief that there might be something "phony" about Tut's knockout was strengthened by the action of the Minnesota Boxing Commission and the National Boxing Commission. Both bodies suspended the fighters, their managers and all fighters belonging to the same stables.

To most of the customers and boxing writers who viewed the fight it looked like the real thing. The action was whirlwind all the way and both men absorbed plenty of punishment. The blow that sent Tut down for good—a cracking right that landed smack on the button—was certainly of sufficient power to warrant a ten-count.

Before Tut went down for the last time he took three counts while on his knees. This, he explained, was because he was seized with intense abdominal pains and his legs "slight folded up."

Following the bout he was carried to Polyclinic Hospital for an examination. He was released the next day.

ILLINI CLOSED CAGE SEASON WITH A RUSH

Played Best Game In Big Ten After Five Straight Losses

Chicago, Mar. 3.—(UP)—Only five games remain today on the Big Ten basketball schedule.

Northwestern, the Big Ten basketball champion, closed its season last night with a 41-16 victory over Iowa.

The Wildcats won 11 games and lost one in the Big Ten. Between halves of the game last night the Allerton championship cup was presented to Northwestern.

Purdue moved into a tie for second place with Minnesota by scoring a 24-17 victory over Wisconsin at Madison.

Illinois closed its season by defeating Chicago, 36-30. The Illini lost its first five conference games, and then closed with a rush playing perhaps the best game in the conference at the finish.

In the other game last night Ohio State upset Indiana, 31-15.

President Of Peru Forced Out By Navy

Lima, Peru, Mar. 2.—(AP)—A new government, which its adherents hoped would prove acceptable to all insurgent groups ruled Peru today after a week-end change of face by the navy which sent the six-month-old revolutionary junta of Lieutenant Colonel Luis M. Sanchez Cerro into the discard.

The head of the new government is the new Chief Justice of the Peru Supreme Court, Dr. Ricardo Leoncio Elias. Collaborating with him is Colonel Manuel Ruiz Brazo, the Chief of General Staff. A message was sent to Captain Alejandro Vences, Commander-in-Chief of the Navy, at Pisco Bay, asking him to join the new junta.

Hostilities with the rebel groups at Arequipa, Cuzco, Puna and Piura were discontinued, temporarily at least.

With the exception of the second deficiency bill carrying $105,000,000, all of the big money measures today had been enacted into law. Final action was expected today on the second deficiency, which also carried authorization of $70,000,000 for public building construction.

The Treasury-Post Office Department supply bill was largest for the fiscal year beginning July 1, totaling $1,083,148,923.

For the first time, the supply bill for the nearly two score independent government agencies reached nearly as high, with $1,052,777,010. Of this about $883,000,000 went to the Veterans Administration and

For GINGER'S SAKE

CHAPTER XLII
"WHY, they're a regular gang aren't they?" Ginger cried. "Benito's gang. Isn't lowa getting tough?"

But they explained that it was no gang, that Benito had been free-lancing on his own account and to the horror of his countrymen. Little Angelo had taken the first train back to his mother in Chicago. He couldn't think of remaining longer in a place where such horrible crimes were committed; his mother wouldn't like it.

Pietro, on the other hand, did not wish to leave at all. He was waiting to talk it over with Ginger. He said it was a good job, and he liked it, and if Miss Ginger was willing he'd cook her spaghetti for life!

"Oh, Phil," teased Ginger, "how ever did you get the idea that that was a good job?"

Almost with consciousness itself returned the memory that Cotton was the wife of Speed.

"And I hope," she said slyly, setting herself more comfortably within Bard's arm, "that you do not feel so very badly about that."

"I don't feel badly about it at all. The only thing I regret is that my portrait painting has been so interrupted. I'm to a great hurry now to get enough money for us to get married on."

"Perhaps," she suggested brightly, "Phil will be willing to lend us some of the ransom money. It was really you who saved it for her."

BUT she lapsed presently into troubled thought.

"Bard," she said at last, with a sigh, "I have something to tell you. You're going to be disappointed in me. I know. But you may as well have the truth before you begin saving money."

"It sounds very terrible," he said, smiling.

"It is terrible. You see, it's like this. I'm not really what you think I am at all."

"I think you are the sweetest—" "Yes, but listen. I'm not really sophisticated and smart and worldly as I've been letting on. Not a bit. I'm really—I'm just the same old personage Ginger that I always was. You know, Bard, you can't outgrow things when you get to be my age. I'm sort of ashamed of it. In a way, but on the whole it's comfortable, too."

"What do you mean, Ginger?" "Why, being old-fashioned like I am. You know, Bard, I still say my prayers. Yes, really. Not before people—but I do. And believe me, when I get in a jam I say them in earnest! Every time I half-came to in that boat I was just praying my head off. Don't tell the others. How Eddy Jackson would laugh! He'd say, 'Ginger, you're a little girl. He didn't speak. He crossed her hand, pressed it to his lips. He didn't speak. "And I was a pan preacher," she continued ruefully. "It's all put on. Really, I still think preachers are quite corking—nice ones that is, like father. And Bard, don't tell this, but I don't like to see Cotton smoke. I'd rather rather see him die. But don't ever give me away, will you?"

"Is that all of the confession?" She sighed a little. "It seemed no more than fair to tell you." She said regretfully. "But I knew you would be disappointed in me."

"But Ginger," he said laughing, "you know—to tell you the truth—I suspected it all the time." Ginger was wordlessly amazed.

"You often gave yourself away," he went on. "Just little things that would crop out now and then."

"Oh, dear," she said. "What a frump I must be!"

Bard stood up. "Guess I'd better get at those portraits," he said. "Every hour I lay off work now is just so many days I haven't got you."

Ginger brightened. "You mean you—you are going to stick to it?" she said. "Parsonage and all?"

"Parsonage and all," he declared firmly.

But when it came to breaking the news to Eddy Jackson—dear, faithful Eddy Jackson—tried and true friend through the harrowing vicissitudes of so many years—her happiness clouded a little. She sent every one else away and had him come, alone, and sit beside her on the bed.

"Eddy," she said, burrowing her head into the silken cushions and reaching feverishly for his hands—those kind hands that had steadied her troubled steps through so many, many ways! "Eddy, it's like this. She began. "You know how Bard

Senator-Elect Hull Warns Dem. Committee

Washington, Mar. 2—(UP)—Protesting that the Democratic National Committee has no authority to prescribe issues, Senator-elect Cordell Hull, Dem., Tenn., issued today a new warning apparently aimed at reports the National Committee plans to take action on the prohibition and tariff issues at its meeting here Thursday.

Hull, a former Democratic National Chairman, said if such a prescribing of issues is undertaken, it would be in order to give notice also that "the formality of a national convention next year would be dispensed with."

Hull's statement, which followed numerous congressional protests against the committee's committing the party on prohibition, did not mention either the prohibition or tariff issues.

Third Hurricane Of Week In Fiji Island

Suva, Fiji Island, March 2—(UP)—The north and east coasts of Viti Levu Island, largest of the Fiji group, were swept today by the third hurricane within less than two weeks.

The hurricane, fully as severe as the two which preceded it, brought rainfall for the period to more than 100 inches and added to the devastation throughout the islands.

Illinois Traffic Accidents Kill Two

Pana, Ill., March 2—(AP)—Clarence Danley, 21, son of Prof. A. J. Danley, principal of the Lincoln school, Pana, was killed and Lawrence Lynch and Andrew Vadelebene also of Pana were seriously injured in an auto accident here yesterday.

In the Hollow of Your Hand—Mother

That boy of yours—you hold him in the hollow of your hand. How he grows from year to year—how he gains in energy, manhood—all depend on how you feed and teach him. The very principle of growth and energy is butter-fat—its most digestible form is milk. Your boy will drink milk eagerly if you add two teaspoonfuls of Thompson's Chocolate "Double-Malted." It contains twice the malt enzymes of ordinary malted milks. Taken with meals it helps digest other foods.

FREE LIFE LINE CHART—6 feet high, keeps track of the weight and height of the entire growing family. Send a postcard for it to Thompson's Malted Milk Co., Inc., Waukesha, Wisconsin.
